

Safety Seminar

Running Successful Meetings - Tanya Steele

Tanya Steele helps Occupational Health Committees make their meetings interesting, engaging and even fun! Tanya will demonstrate various aids to make the meetings more effective, influential, and purposeful.

Learn how to make the Occupational Health Committee an effective part of your company's health & safety program. Empower workers and managers to make better decisions towards safety with education.

Discover proven meeting techniques that will make your safety meetings interesting, engaging and even fun. Tanya will demonstrate various aids to make the meetings more effective, influential, and purposeful.

This session is high energy and designed for committee members, managers, leaders and owners. We promise your time won't be wasted. You will leave with knowledge, tidbits and a new passion for health and safety within your company.

About the Speaker:

Utilizing her 27 years of experience as an Instructor & Safety Coordinator, Tanya Steele offers real life scenarios and easy proven in the field solutions.

Tanya is the Regional Vice President of the Canadian Society of Safety Engineering for BC/Yukon. She has served on several provincial and national Boards and has been featured for the Journal of Commerce, Canadian Occupational Safety Magazine and has been published in the BC/Alberta Construction Magazine. Tanya has recently been honored in the receiving of the Professional Leadership Award for Women and an Educational Leadership Award.

 Saskatchewan Safety Council

 /sasksafetycouncil  @SkSafetyCouncil  /company/saskatchewan-safety-council

www.sasksafety.org

1.855.280.7115

